The lecture also delved into the practical understanding of the problem, involving phenomena like shocks and rarefactions, using real-world examples. Prof. Panda further addressed various numerical techniques such as FTCS and the Lax-Friedrichs Scheme for solving these equations. The solution of nonlinear PDEs, like the Inviscid Burgers' Equation, was explored through the computation of characteristic curves. The event saw active participation from around 60 M.Sc and Ph.D. students, as well as faculty members and staff from the School. Prof. S. Panda was warmly welcomed and introduced by Dr. Anita Nayak, with additional insights shared by Prof. S. Nanda, Prof. S. K. Misra, Prof. S.K. Samal, Prof. B.B. 4.122. KIMS Doctor Develops Easy-To-Use ‘Sanjivani’ Gadget To Save Cardiac Arrest Victims

The Doctors at Kalinga Institute of Medical Sciences (KIMS) have developed a cost-effective technology that can provide prompt assistance and save a person at home suffering from cardiac arrest. The ‘Sanjivani’ hand-held gadget, as the name suggests, is a critical life-saving device. Its development assumes significance as various reports and studies have reflected a significant increase in heart attack-related deaths in recent years. Today, approximately 85 percent of sudden cardiac arrests are being reported at home or outside the hospital, with the survival rate being less than 10 percent. The human brain suffers irreversible damage after 6 minutes of cardiac arrest in the absence of high-quality chest compressions, which means pressing the middle part of the chest at a rate of 100 per minute, and a depth of at least 5 centimeters while allowing complete chest recoil between two successive compressions."
